FilmGate has its ear to the ground and our programs reflect the needs of our community. It is our mission to create a strong filmmaker community in South Florida and to provide a supportive environment, designed to empower unique creative voices and artistic self-esteem to all ages. We reflect the social realities of our region and give voice to BIPOC creators, women creators, Latin X creators, LGBTQ+ creators, as well as creators who might lack access to resources, yet have a unique point of view.

Our workshops and youth summer camp and fellowship program provide resources to emerging voices with limited access to resources. The vast majority of projects that FilmGate supports are by women and also include the perspectives of African American, Indigenous, Latin X and LGBTQ+ voices. Our geographic location in Miami, a pivotal gateway to South America and the Caribbean, enables us to attract a majority (70%) Latin X, Haitian descent audience, a large segment of which is digitally native, 25 years or younger, early content adopters in search of art and stories that engage and immerse them creatively and interactively.

Many of the film projects we select for exhibition are visual and sound-track driven to break down accessibility boundaries in multilingual Miami-Dade County, and the other counties we serve.

Our membership base attracts artists and creators from the film industry, broadcasting, gaming, audio-production, advertising and the performing arts sector who are interested in technological creative experiences that appeal to and attract the broadest possible audience. Many of our members come from the demographic groups detailed above.

FilmGate inhabits a dynamic creative space with a 25-year-long lease in Downtown Miami, which is easily accessible by public transit. Our monthly programs attract over 1,000 diverse visitors, aged 13 to 70 years. We provide scholarships to students and are actively involved in the cultural grassroots ecosystem in Miami-Dade County.

Through partnerships with industry leaders, Microsoft, Magic Leap, Panasonic, ARRI CSC, SONY, Snap, META/Oculus Rift and others we are positioned to extend the newest equipment to our users to ensure that they are always at the forefront of innovation and immersive storytelling.

We have always been an inclusive organization, providing equal employment opportunities and our staff reflects that our employees come from the communities we serve - Latin X, BIPOC, LGBTQ+, and disabled artists and constituents. We will continue to increase our efforts to promote our programs and inclusivity and build upon our achievements, including reaching out to our immediate neighbors in Overtown and Lemon City, to work closely to provide opportunities for emerging BIPOC artists, by providing them with the most innovative technology and comprehensive mentorship.

Throughout the pandemic and beyond, we have continued to offer virtual programming of FilmGate Miami's Short Film Festival and our workshop program to expand our audience reach and address a need for our constituents who are health compromised. We are offering online workshops in screenwriting, 3d Modeling, Unity, Unreal Engine, producing, Animation and more.

Briefly describe any virtual programming that you provide to the public. This information should include who is able to access the programming and any payment structure.

We have 100% returned to in-person events but we remain committed to hybrid programming. For one, it allows participants from the rest of Florida and also nationally to plugin. We are connecting our Florida filmmakers to a national community of media makers, which is imperative for their success. It also allows for the vulnerable population, not vaccinated/health compromised, or our elder members (over 65) to be able to participate remotely and enjoy our monthly Short Film Festival and workshops.

14. Proposal Impact (3500 characters)

How is your organization benefitting your community .What is the economic impact of your organization?

Organizations: Include education and outreach activities.

Solo or Individual Artists: Include any positive social elements and community engagement anticipated from the project.

FilmGate Miami's economic impact consists of:

Cultural Tourism: we serve as an incentive for cultural tourism by providing an opportunity for residents and tourists alike to consume and access quality media art. The vast majority of FilmGate Miami's world-class programs are affordable but rarely completely free, hence making events democratically available but cultivating an appreciation for the arts on a grassroots level.

Educational Access: we provide broad engagement and educational accessibility to all members of the community through in-kind partnership agreements with blue-chip corporate sponsors including Sony, Oculus Rift, Microsoft and others. In many cases, we provide new technology which is usually inaccessible and costly for free as part of our workshops, festivals and educational programming, in order to introduce our community to innovative projects like virtual reality, augmented reality and more.

Go Local: Our events continually direct new audiences and monies to organizations and businesses locally across Miami-Dade. Even though we have our own venue, we also take residence at a variety of venues and different addresses to outreach to other non-profit audience bases. For example, we have provided O Cinema, the Miami Beach Cinematheque, the Betsy Hotel, and the Silverspot Theater with sold-out audiences for our monthly Festival and FilmGate Interactive Media Festival. Our audiences consume food and beverages in the vicinity of our location and also at other partner venues.

Employment Opportunities: IFCM Corp/FilmGate employs three full-time employees and five part-time employees. This number increases as we prepare for our annual Interactive Media Festival, where we become five full-time employees, 15 independent contractors and 20 volunteers. The Festival attracts an audience of 5,000 attendees, 1,500 of which are from other states and countries.

Florida Filmmaker Support: Florida has excellent film and media schools, but once students graduate, they don't receive the support they need to continue to create here. Every time a creator feels the need to move frustrated due to a lack of support, in places like Atlanta, New York, LA, New Orleans and even Toronto, Florida's voice becomes a little quieter on a global scale. Our programs are allowing filmmakers to remain in South Florida and to create their projects regionally. We have stories, we have raw talent, and we can have a film and media industry in this region.

Promotion of South Florida as a dynamic filmmaking hub: The Downtown Media Center is home to four other production houses that are a part of our ecosystem. Within our walls, the following is being created, a feature film based on a Florida book-award-winning novel and a virtual reality project with the Frost Science Museum and a pilot TV pitch to FX & HULU, a dome project for PBS, and the Stiltsville VR Project with the University of Miami. This co-shared economy is allowing them to produce quality projects at minimal costs. Our members have access to the above resources at the DMC and take advantage of them - to conduct their castings, rehearsal, and production meetings.

Location Venue/Info Center for Filmmakers: FilmGates Downtown Media Center is also available to external organizations who wish to rent our space and we work with premier organizations that assist out of town filmmakers/production companies, looking to shoot in South Florida.

15. Marketing and Promotion

15.1. How are your marketing and promoting your organizations offerings? *

- Billboards
- Brochures
- Collaborations
- Email Marketing
- Magazine
- Newsletter
- Newspaper
- Pay Per Click (PPC) Advertising
- Podcast
- Radio
- Organic Social Media
- Paid Social Media
- Television

15.2. What steps are you taking in order to build your audience and expand your reach? (3500 characters)

How are you marketing and promoting your organizations offerings?

IFCM Corp/FilmGate Miami (FGM) intends to pay for paid and trade print ads, as well as television, radio and internet advertisements and promotions to market, promote and develop audiences for our upcoming program. We also send out press kits, press releases, and calendar listings to local community organizations and public calendars. The reach of our promotional materials is further amplified thanks to our partnerships with other organizations that provide additional email blasts to their large subscriber lists, including such as O Cinema, Miami Film Festival, and the University of Miami Communication Department.

Over the years, FGM has developed strategic promotional partnerships with media and press sponsors such as WLRN, WDNA, the Miami Herald, Miami New Times, Channel 10 News, the Washington Post, the NY Times, Mira TV, and Spanish outlets such as El Nuevo Herald. We continue to engage in social media such as Facebook, Instagram and Twitter, which have proven effective in engaging young people.

FGM will evaluate its marketing efforts utilizing a number of different metrics: Print Media Coverage, Facebook shares and likes, SquareSpace e-flyer engagements, Google Analytics for articles, downloads through a variety of platforms, project website traffic, video starts, blog mentions, links from other sites, comments, sharing activity, social media activity and online surveys; community engagement and education; partner evaluations and audience evaluations from participants who have immersed themselves in our work/participated in one our workshops/talks/classes.

We will design a targeted branding campaign, which will include signs, brochures, digital banners, animated gifs and videos to promote our upcoming series.

We will work with film commissions to promote the services of the FilmGate Downtown Miami Digital Media Center across the State of Florida because it is designed to support statewide independent creators.

We will create media partnerships, where FilmGate Miami videos can be screened on PBS, Univision, HBO, ABC and CBS, as well as Netflix.

A partnership with Brightline will allow us to engage a wider audience and participants all the way through Orlando.

We cannot underestimate the power of the right endorsement and we will seek out prominent Florida creators who will collaborate with us, explore the Downtown Media Center and endorse our programming.

Our most profound impact lies in our education and outreach activities. We have spent the last twelve years cultivating an emerging and diverse talent in South Florida. We have strengthened the local film community by identifying, nurturing, and providing a platform for underrepresented perspectives without access to conventional filmmaking assets. We have connected these storytellers to larger opportunities such as industry leaders and universities to grow their careers.

In a state without any meaningful tax incentive support for retaining local talent, the failure to provide accessible resources and connect with a range of voices is palpable. Many diverse perspectives go unheard not for lack of talent or storytelling ability, but rather access to the medium's prohibitively expensive tools and production support. FilmGate Miami recognizes this challenge and it is our passion and work on a daily basis to retain South Florida filmmakers by providing them with a pipeline of programs and networking opportunities.

F. Impact - Access for All Page 6 of 12

1. Describe how the facilities and proposal activities are accessible to all audiences and any plans that are in place to improve accessibility. In addition to your facility, what specific step are you taking to make your programming accessible to persons of all abilities and welcoming to all members of your community? (3500 characters)

For example, explain use of accessibility symbols in marketing materials, accessibility of facilities and programming and/or target population. You can find resources on accessibility at dos.myflorida.com/cultural/info-and-opportunities/resources-by-topic/accessibility. We encourage all applicants to include images in the support materials showing the use of accessibility symbols in marketing materials.

From the beginning, Founders and artistic directors Diliانا Alexander and Jose Jacho, have been long-time champions and advocates of diversity and inclusion in all of our programming. It's in the DNA of the organization, which was founded by a woman producer and a BIPOC LatinX filmmaker.

The FilmGate Downtown Media Center is wheelchair accessible through elevators and wide enough doorways. The bathrooms are also ADA-compliant. We already include disability access symbols on all of our marketing materials, and we plan to include a hotline number and email for complaints about accessibility - we guarantee a 24-hour response time to any complaints and concerns.

All of our programming is senior-friendly, and our digital native staff are always on hand to coach seniors and navigate them through the technology platforms to enable them to access and create visual content. We also work with local organizations including the Miami-Dade Cultural Affairs Department Golden Ticket program to outreach to them.

We ensure that all of the hotels we work with are ADA-compliant.

If requested in advance through our accessibility staffer Michi Hung (we make this clear in our marketing materials) we are also positioned to provide ASL interpretations for patrons at our Short Film Festival and Interactive Media Festival.

Locally, Filmgate is still mentoring a creator with autism, who is developing an augmented reality project that we will present to broader audiences which explores what it is like to be autistic and a woman - autism spectrum disorders show a striking male bias in prevalence, with approximately 4 affected males for every 1 affected female - she hopes to incite more research and treatments for women on the autistic spectrum with this project.

By actively outreaching and working with Shake A Leg, Miami Lighthouse for the Blind and others, including artists and activists, we will be positioned to enable individuals with permanent, temporary, situational, or changing disabilities to creatively overcome human limitations by providing them with the tools to understand how to build a more accessible future and with experiences that will enrich their lives culturally.

5. What efforts has your organization made to provide programming for all? (2000 characters)

FilmGate Miami believes that everyone should be able to find their voice and thus be an integral part of our society at large, so we work to make our programs accessible to every member of our community by connecting filmmakers and media creators to each other and a local and international audience. Our three-prong learning approach is:

1. learn/educate
2. create/produce
3. show/exhibit.

It is our goal to help realize the potential of XR and create a future where all XR is accessible to people with disabilities. Through our skill-improvement programs in partnership with Magic Leap - the world's leading creator of augmented reality wearables - we are committed to focusing on providing educational opportunities for creators and youth with different abilities to enable them to have the tools available to create augmented, and mixed reality (XR) stories.

We assist the deaf to hear by showing captions in augmented reality glasses; we work with the blind to see - using haptics VR to provide users with the ability to access the virtual environment via the sense of touch - and utilizing wearable technologies, such as Microsoft's

“The Emma Watch” that uses motors to send vibrations to the brain that help control Parkinson’s hand tremors.

People with disabilities are at risk of being excluded if technologies do not factor in requirements for different communication modes (e.g., visual, verbal, tactile/haptic, etc.) and different languages (e.g., body language, non-verbal expressions, spoken languages, sign languages, etc.). As the ability of XR technologies to awaken spatial memory, unlock intelligence, link minds and cross modalities become even more mainstream, it’s important that we work with companies that are designing the devices and platforms used with social good in mind.

In FY23/24 we continue to partner with Microsoft with ARRI to create a short film fund for BIPOC creators in South Florida and educational programs for kids/young adults and adults with diversity at the forefront. Through these initiatives, we are planning on engaging close to 100,000 kids and adults in person and remotely, a commitment backed by Microsoft.

We continue to provide mentorship and funding to diverse creative voices and plan to expand that film fund with the support of Commissioner Higgins and District 5, as well as the Miami Dade Film Office and its commissioner, Marco Giron.

Briefly describe your organization's history including founding dates and significant changes in management, location, mission, etc. Also, include major accomplishments and program growth, adaptation to external factors and significant relationships and partnerships.

IFCM Corp /FilmGate Miami (FGM) is a not-for-profit organization founded in 2012 by film producer Diliaana Alexander and Miami filmmaker Jose Jacho. The organization was built out of necessity, to support independent media creation in Florida, a state without limited media-support incentives. The first inaugural program, I'M NOT GONNA MOVE TO L.A. (now FGM monthly Short Film Festival), highlights shorts created by Florida filmmakers. Now in its tenth year (May. 2022), the festival has showcased over 800 state-made shorts.

2013 - FGM won the prestigious Knight Foundation Arts Challenge Award to launch FilmGate Interactive, an immersive and interactive media festival which illuminates the future in storytelling, entertainment, and art. FGM also launched a robust educational program embracing panels and workshops on the themes of screenwriting, filmmaking, producing, cinematography, acting, virtual reality, animation and augmented reality.

2017 - following a successful 2-year fundraising campaign, FGM opened the doors of "The Downtown Media Center", a 7,000-square-foot studio, which provides a percolator space for ideas, production offices, workshop space, a green screen studio, an audio studio and a small theater. The black box inside the Center serves as a hub for filmmakers to present interactive projects, films seeking finishing funds and more.

2019 - FGM launched its inaugural Summer Filmmaker Bootcamp for Young Artists aged 13-18 years. This two-week daytime crash course in media content provides the necessary skills related to the telling of great visual stories.

2020 - Through its membership program in 2019 FGM successfully mentored 10 short films and one feature-length production that world premiere at the prestigious Miami International Film Festival in March 2020.

2021 – 8th edition, of FilmGate Interactive, saw us enter strategic partnerships with the Frost Science Museum to program their dome for the first year in a row

2022 - secured a 25-year lease one floor above the current location and secured funding for four BIPOC shorts in partnership with ARRI

2023 - renovated our 7,000 square-foot space, and celebrated our 10-year anniversary in December 2023, we will host the 10th Annual FilmGate Interactive Festival. We also secured a grant to create an interactive gallery at the space to incorporate Artificial Intelligence into our educational programming, with the support of Microsoft.

2. Fiscal Condition and Sustainability (2000 characters)

Describe the fiscal condition of the organization as it relates to the successful completion of the proposal. Also describe plans to sustain the proposal activities after the grant period.

In March 2023, our entire building/HQ at the Downtown Media Center was evacuated due to fire escape issues. We spent four months out of the space and suffered a significant amount of loss in rental income. We were able to secure support through our local commissioners, mayor and agencies, to support our budget. Our board assisted us with fundraising.

In 2023, our Festivals have supposed pre-COVID revenue numbers. Our revenue from admissions, workshop fees and labs has increased by 50% as we have been able to open up our capacity numbers. We are continuing to offer a hybrid programming model and attracting online sales. Membership services have remained steady.

We were able to increase our staffing with SBA assistance and have been able to maintain our staffing ratio of 3 full-time staff throughout the last 26 months. We have also been able to increase our part-time staffing back to pre-COVID hours.

We have hired a fundraising/development service with the goal to increase our funding by 30% in FY 23/24 and 50% in FY 24/25.

We celebrated our 10th anniversary as an organization in July 2022 and are proud that we have grown, thrived and provided invaluable services to Florida's creative ecosystem. We believe that we have emerged stronger and more resilient, and do not have any outstanding debts to vendors.

In December 2023, we anticipate celebrating our 10th Annual FilmGate Interactive Festival with a bigger budget and our highest expected attendance to date.
